

Pressure Washers – What You Can Use Them For

Pressure washers have changed the way we clean, making it now affordable and much easier to get rid of even the most stubborn and persisting marks and stains. Owning a pressure washer means you can now clean a wide variety of things quickly, efficiently and effectively, meaning the days of scrubbing your patio for three days just to remove the day to day mess can now be fully described as over.

Below we look at some of the most common uses of a pressure washer in the domestic environment.

Cleaning Your Car – No longer one of the most boring jobs on a Sunday morning, using a pressure washer can even make cleaning your car a bit more exciting, but if it doesn't, it will certainly make it easier! Pressure washers are fantastic for cleaning cars, especially when it comes to the tyres and bumpers, as it makes cleaning those really hard to reach areas far more accessible and should reduce the time it takes you to clean your prized possession and free up your time for more family based time.

Cleaning Your Patio / Driveway – Patios and Driveways become covered in day to day dirt over the years and the longer you leave cleaning it, the harder it becomes when you do finally decide to take the plunge. A pressure washer will save you loads of time, as it helps remove the dirt layer by layer rather than just going all in and it taking much longer with more traditional cleaning methods. It may well take a few goes to remove all existing dirt and marks, but over a few treatments you should be able to make your patio or drive way look almost brand new.

Gutter Cleaning – Over a period of time, especially in the Autumn and Winter seasons, your gutters and guttering will become clogged full of leaves, dirt and other general nuisances that can sometimes take an age to clear. You can successfully use a pressure washer to blast all of this mess away, meaning you do not need to painfully clean every piece of guttering, you can simply fire away and remove the problems that could be blocking your gutters, which can lead to damp issues and building damage.

Decking Cleaning – As improving your garden has become more popular on the TV and in the media, the rise of decking has also seen a massive increase, but this just means another thing to keep clean! A pressure washer can really help to take the hardship out of this; because it can get into those tiny creases and cracks that a broom or brush would really struggle to manage. You can also clean a much bigger area in a shorter time than when you compare this to other cleaning procedures, and the results are often far better with a pressure washer.

External Floors – For garage, shed and other types of external flooring, a pressure washer can really help to keep these worn areas much cleaner. Because these external areas are usually much dirtier than your floors in the house, it is often ideal that a pressure washer is used to clean these areas, as a mop and bucket will probably not be quite cut out for the job of cleaning these surfaces effectively.
